Subject: Impact of Coronavirus on S&C and Our Customers

Due to S&C's global operations, we have been closely monitoring the development of the coronavirus. At this time, our focus is on the safety of our team members and supporting the communities and customers impacted by the virus.

In compliance with efforts to contain the virus, S&C's manufacturing facility in China has been temporarily closed. This facility primarily serves the Chinese market but does provide some parts and products for the U.S. and other international markets. All current orders are not impacted by the supply of materials from China. Material for current orders is either in inventory or has already been shipped.

For future orders, in anticipation of further escalation of the virus, S&C is planning for other manufacturing locations to be ready to take over manufacturing affected products. If you have specifically approved manufacturing locations, S&C will liaise with you to determine what steps are needed to ensure continuity of supply.

At this time, S&C does not anticipate any disruption of existing or new orders. S&C will continue to monitor the situation and inform you immediately of any changes.

If you have any questions, please contact your local sales leadership.

Yours sincerely,

Andrew Jones
